President and CEO

SCOTIABANK PRESIDENT and CEO William “Bill” Clarke will be honoured with the “Distinguished Philanthropist Award” at the second Conference on Caribbean Philanthropy scheduled for May 2 - 5 at the Rose Hall Resort and Country Club in Montego Bay.

The conference is being organised by the UWI Development and Endowment fund in association with the National Center for Black Philanthropy, Washington DC. Mr. Clarke, a devout philanthropist who has been with Scotiabank for 38 years will be honoured for his unwavering commitment to philanthropy and corporate social responsibility. During his 38 years of service in various leadership positions, Scotiabank has deepened its commitment to making social reinvestment an institutional practice.

Under his leadership Scotiabank has received international acclaim for their far-sightedness in utilising philanthropy as a means of significantly contributing to nation building. This philosophy provided the core principle for the establishment of the Scotiabank Jamaica Foundation in 1996.

The award is presented at each conference by the National Center for Black Philanthropy to a local/regional individual who through their private giving or company policies has demonstrated a history of dedication to social reinvestment.
