

Scotiabank President and CEO, William E. Clarke receives Distinguished Philanthropy Award

William Clarke, President and CEO, Scotiabank Jamaica is the recipient of the second Philanthropy Award from the National Center for Black Philanthropy. This distinguished award was presented by Rodney Jackson, President and CEO of the National Center For Black Philanthropy during the recent Conference on Caribbean Philanthropy, held May 2-5, at the Rose Hall Resort and Country Club in Montego Bay, under the theme 'Caribbean Philanthropy, the Region's Philanthropic Movement.'

In accepting the award, Mr. Clarke said, "My personal aim and that of Scotiabank Jamaica, is to effect positive changes in our corner of the planet. We remain committed to using our corporate resources and skills to address social problems in Jamaica."

Mr. Jackson said, "Since our Second National Conference on Black Philanthropy in Oakland, California in 1999, The National Center For Black Philanthropy has made a point of seeking out and honoring African Americans and others who, by their generous actions, have uplifted the black community while, simultaneously, enriching the lives of the general community and encouraging others to follow their example."

William E. Clarke, cd
President and CEO
Scotiabank Jamaica
"Business Philanthropist of the Year"

The National Center For Black Philanthropy Inc. is a nonprofit, tax-exempt organization Incorporated in the District of Columbia in 1999. The National Center's Mission is to promote philanthropic giving in the African American / Caribbean community; foster full participation by African Americans and people of the Caribbean in all aspects of philanthropy; educate the public about the philanthropic contributions of African Americans and people of the Caribbean; strengthen and support people and institutions engaged in the practice of Black philanthropy and conduct research into the contributions of Black philanthropy to the social and economic well-being of all Americans.

