Sub Funds and Classes

Each Fund may establish, by resolution of its Directors, separate portfolios known as "Sub Funds" (each a "Sub Fund") from time to time. Each Fund is permitted to create Sub Funds in order to segregate the assets and liabilities that are held within or on behalf of a particular portfolio from the assets and liabilities of any other portfolio. The Fund may establish multiple Classes of Shares, which may have terms that differ from those governing the other classes of Shares, without obtaining the consent of Shareholders. A Sub Fund's assets are only available and may only be used to meet liabilities to creditors in respect of the particular Sub Fund and are not available to meet liabilities to creditors in respect of other Sub Funds, but note "Cross Sub Fund and Cross Class Risk" in RISK FACTORS. The Fund may create a Sub Fund in respect of each Class of Shares or aggregate several Classes.

Each Sub Fund is, in effect, a separate fund issuing a separate class of shares. A Shareholder's interest is limited to the assets held in the Sub Fund associated with the Class in which it holds Shares. Each Class of the Fund attributable to a Sub Fund will bear the expenses and liabilities directly attributable to that Class and a portion of the Fund's general administrative expenses allocated on the basis of total net assets or another equitable method.

In the case of any asset or liability of a Fund which the Directors do not consider to be attributable to a particular Sub Fund, the Directors shall have the discretion to determine the basis upon which any such asset or liability shall be allocated between or among the Sub Funds and the Directors shall have power at any time and from time to time to vary such basis.

The Subscription Form for each Fund will identify what Sub Funds and Classes are available. All Funds offer Class A Shares denominated in United States dollars.

Dividend Policy

It is not the present intention that any of the Funds will make any distributions of income or capital gains by way of dividends and accordingly may not be a suitable investment for Shareholders seeking regular cash distributions. Income and net realized capital gains will be reflected in the Net Asset Value of the Shares of each Fund. However the Directors of each Fund may authorize dividends in their complete and unfettered discretion from time to time.

Risk Factors

WHAT ARE THE RISKS?

Risk is often measured by volatility or the extent of which the net asset value of a mutual fund fluctuates. The value of a fund's shares can change from day to day for many reasons, including changes in the economy, interest rates, and market news affecting a particular company or industry sector, which the Fund may be invested in.

The degree of risk depends on the fund's investment objectives and the types of securities it invests in. A general rule of investing is that the higher the risk, the higher the potential for gains or losses.

- Cash equivalent funds - usually offer the least risk as they invest in highly liquid, short-term investments such as treasury bills. Their potential returns are tied to short-term interest rates.
- Bond funds - generally have a medium level of risk as they invest in fixed income securities that fluctuate in value based on changes in interest rates or in the credit quality of an investment. Bond funds typically have higher long term returns than cash equivalent funds.
- Equity funds - have the highest level of risk as they invest in equity securities, such as common shares, whose prices can rise or fall significantly in a short period of time.

MANAGING RISK

One way to manage risk is to diversify investments across the three main asset classes: cash, bonds and equities. Since different types of investments tend to move independently from one another, positive performance in one asset class may help offset negative performance in another, thereby reducing volatility and overall risk over the long term, however, there can be no guarantee such an approach will mitigate risk.

While risk is an important factor to consider when choosing a fund, an investor should also think about their investment goals and time horizon (ie. when they will need the money). For example, if an investor is saving for a large purchase in the next year or so, they should consider investing in a fund with very low risk. However, if they want their retirement savings to grow over the next 20 years, they likely should put more of their money in funds bearing more risk.

A carefully chosen mix of investments can help reduce risk and still help meet investment goals. A mutual fund representative can help to build a portfolio that is suited to your goals and risk comfort level. If investment goals or tolerance for risk change, you can and should change your investments to match your new situation.

SPECIFIC RISKS OF MUTUAL FUNDS

Asset-backed securities and mortgage-backed securities risk - Asset-backed securities are debt obligations that are backed by pools of consumer or business loans. Mortgage-backed securities are debt obligations backed by pools of mortgages on commercial or residential real estate. If there are changes in the market perception of the issuers of these types of securities, or in the creditworthiness of the parties involved, then the value of the securities may be affected. In the use of mortgage-backed securities, there is also a risk that there may be a drop in the interest rates charged on mortgages, a mortgagor may default on its obligations under a mortgage or there may be a drop in the value of the property secured by the mortgage.

Concentration risk - Mutual funds that concentrate their investments in a single industry, country or geographic area. This allows them to focus on the potential of that particular industry, country or area or in a relatively few number of securities. Mutual funds that concentrate their investments tend to have greater fluctuations in price than funds with broader diversification. Funds that invest in fewer securities have greater concentration risk.

Credit Risk - Credit risk is the risk that the government or company that issued a fixed income or money market security will be unable to make interest payments or pay back the principal. Securities that have a low credit rating have higher credit risk. Lower-rated debt securities issued by companies or governments in developing countries generally have higher credit risk. Securities issued by well-established companies or by governments of developed countries generally have lower credit risk. The market value of a debt security can be affected by a change in the issuer's credit rating resulting from a change in the creditworthiness, or perceived creditworthiness, of the issuer. Credit ratings are not solely objective measurements of credit risk of any issuer.

Cross Sub Fund and Cross Class Risk - Some Funds may establish separate Sub Funds or offer two or more Classes of Shares of the same Fund. Although the Net Asset Value of each Sub Fund or Class is calculated separately, there remains a risk that the expenses or liabilities of one Sub Fund or Class of Shares may affect the Net Asset Value of the other Sub Funds or Classes as in the event of the insolvency of the Fund, if one Sub Fund or Class is unable to cover its liabilities, the other Sub Funds or Classes are legally responsible for covering the difference.

Currency Risk - When a Fund buys or holds an investment that is denominated in a currency other than US dollars, changes in the exchange rate between that currency and the US dollar will affect the value of the Fund.

Derivatives Risk - Derivatives can be useful for hedging against loss, gaining exposure to financial markets and making indirect investments, but they involve certain risks:

- Hedging with derivatives may not achieve the intended result. Hedging instruments rely on historical or anticipated correlations to predict the impact of certain events, which may or may not occur. If they occur, they may not have the predicted effect.
- It is difficult to hedge against trends that the market has already anticipated.
- Costs relating to entering and maintaining derivatives contracts may reduce the returns of a Fund.
- A currency hedge will reduce gains in the event that the hedged currency increases in value.
- Currency hedging can be difficult in smaller emerging growth countries because of the limited size of their markets.
- Currency hedging provides no protection against changes in the value of the underlying securities.
- There is no guarantee that a liquid exchange or market for derivatives will exist. This could prevent a Fund closing out its positions to realize gains or limit losses. At worst, a Fund might face losses from having to settle underlying futures contracts.
- The prices of derivatives can be distorted if trading in their underlying assets is halted.

Trading in the derivative might be interrupted if trading is halted in a large number of the underlying stocks or assets. This would make it difficult for a Fund to close out its positions.

- The other party in a derivatives contract might not be able to meet its obligations.
- Derivatives trading on foreign markets may take longer and be more difficult to complete. Derivatives on foreign markets are subject to international markets risk.
- Investment dealers and futures brokers may hold a Fund's assets on deposit as collateral for a derivative contract. As a result, someone other than the Fund's custodian is responsible for the safekeeping of that portion of the Fund's assets.

Emerging Markets Risk - Some mutual funds may invest in foreign companies or governments which may be located in, or operate in, developing countries. In general, securities issued in more developed markets, such as Western Europe and North America, have lower international markets risk. Securities issued in emerging or developing markets, such as Southeast Asia or Latin America, have significant international markets risk and may be exposed to emerging markets risk. Companies in these markets may have limited product lines, markets or resources, making it difficult to measure the value of the company. Political instability, possible corruption, as well as lower standards of business regulation increase the risk of fraud and other legal issues. Mutual funds that invest in emerging market securities may be exposed to greater volatility as a result of such issues.

Equity Risk - Funds that invest in equities, such as common shares, are affected by changes in the general economy and by stock market movements. When the economy is strong, the outlook for many companies will be good, and share prices and stock markets will generally rise, as will the value of a fund that holds shares in these companies. On the other hand, share prices usually decline in times of general economic or industry downturn. The price of equity securities of certain companies or companies within a particular industry sector may fluctuate differently than the value of the overall stock market because of changes in the outlook for those individual companies or the particular industry.

Financial Services Risk - Risks of investing in the financial services sector include:

- Regulatory actions: financial services companies may suffer setbacks if regulators change the rules under which they operate.

- Changes in interest rates: unstable and/or rising interest rates may have a disproportionate effect on companies in the financial services sector.
- Non-diversified loan portfolios: financial services companies whose securities the Fund purchases may themselves have concentrated portfolios, such as a high level of loans to real estate developers, which makes them vulnerable to economic conditions that affect that industry.
- Credit: financial services companies may have exposure to investments or agreements which, under certain circumstances, may lead to losses, for example sub-prime loans.
- Competition: the financial services sector has become increasingly competitive.

Headline Risk - The Fund may seek to acquire companies with durable business models that can be purchased at attractive valuations relative to what the Portfolio Manager believes to be the companies' intrinsic values. The Fund may make such investments when a company becomes the center of controversy after receiving adverse media attention. The company may be involved in litigation, the company's financial reports or corporate governance may be challenged, the company's public filings may disclose a weakness in internal controls, greater government regulation may be contemplated, or other adverse events may threaten the company's future. While the Portfolio Manager researches companies subject to such contingencies, the Fund cannot be correct every time, and the company's stock may never recover.

Interest Rate Risk - Mutual funds that invest in fixed income securities, such as bonds and money market instruments, are affected by changes in the general level of interest rates. In general, when interest rates rise, the value of these investments tends to fall. When rates fall, fixed income securities tend to increase in value. Fixed income securities with longer terms to maturity are generally more sensitive to changes in interest rates.

International Markets Risk - Mutual funds that invest in securities of foreign companies or governments are subject to additional risk.

- The economic environment or the particular economic and political factors of a country or geographic region in which the foreign issuer operates may impact the value of its securities.
- Volume, liquidity and price volatility in some foreign stock and bond markets may vary.
- Stock exchanges, listed companies and investment dealers in foreign countries may be less regulated or have different regulations and reporting practices relative to an investor's local market.

- Political and social instability, restrictions on the movement of capital and the threat of expropriation, can affect the value of investments.

Large Transaction Risk – Shares of the Funds may be purchased in a large number by an entity or entities such as another investment fund. These types of Shareholders may make large purchases or redemptions of a Fund. In the case where an entity purchases a large number of Shares, the Fund may temporarily have a higher than normal cash position until this cash can be invested. In the case of a large redemption, the Fund may be required to sell existing investments at unfavorable prices if it does not have enough cash on hand to fund the redemption. In order to mitigate the impact of this risk to Shareholders, the Fund may require large Shareholders to provide notice when significant redemptions are being contemplated.

Liquidity Risk - Liquidity Risk is the possibility that a mutual fund will not be able to convert its investments into cash when it needs to, or will not be able to do so without causing the price of the investments to drop. Some securities are illiquid because of legal restrictions, the nature of the investment itself, settlement terms, a shortage of buyers or sellers, or other reasons. Generally, investments with lower liquidity tend to be subject to more dramatic price changes and this may subject the holder to losses or additional costs. Investments in other funds are often subject to restricted transferability, partially gated redemptions, or suspension of redemptions, which significantly increases liquidity risk.

Market Risk - If the markets fall substantially across all sectors of the global economy or a particular industry sector in which a Fund is invested then a Fund's Net Asset Value will likely drop in line with the market decline.

Securities Lending Risk - Some mutual funds may enter into securities lending transactions to generate additional income from securities held in a mutual fund's portfolio. A mutual fund may lend securities held in its portfolio to qualified borrowers who provide adequate collateral. In lending its securities, a mutual fund is exposed to the risk that the borrower may not be able to satisfy its obligations under the securities lending agreement and the lending mutual fund is forced to take possession of the collateral held. Losses could result if the collateral held by the mutual fund is insufficient, at the time the remedy is exercised, to replace the securities borrowed.

Small Company Risk - The prices of shares issued by smaller companies tend to fluctuate more than those of larger companies. Smaller companies may not have established markets for their products and may not have solid financing. These companies generally issue few shares and have a lower share trading volume, which increases their liquidity risk.

NO ASSURANCE CAN BE GIVEN THAT ANY OF THE FUNDS WILL ACHIEVE ITS INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE.

Transactions-Subscription, Registration, Redemption, Transfer and Exchange

TRANSACTIONS

All Fund transactions must be processed through an authorized Distributor. Transactions include the subscription, redemption, transfer and/or exchange of Shares, as well as any changes to the registration particulars of Shares. Shares of a Fund are issued or redeemed at the price determined by reference to the Net Asset Value of the Fund (see "Valuations") on the applicable Dealing Day. In order for transactions to be accepted on a Dealing Day, instructions must be received by the Manager, in good order, by the Cut Off Time. Instructions, in good order, received after the Cut Off Time will be processed on the next Dealing Day.

SUBSCRIPTION

Shares of a Fund are issued by the Fund at the subscription price determined by reference to the Net Asset Value of the Fund (see "Valuations") on the applicable Dealing Day.

The initial subscription of Shares requires the completion of a Subscription Form, or such other form that an authorized Distributor may require, in good order. To invest in one or more Funds, Subscribers must forward instructions to purchase Shares to the Manager through an authorized Distributor of the Funds. For a subscription to be accepted on a Dealing Day, instructions must be received by the Manager, before the Cut Off Time on such day. Instructions received after the Cut Off Time will be dealt with on the next applicable Dealing Day.

Payment in full must be received within three Business Days of placing a subscription for all Funds, except the Scotiabank Money Market Fund. For the Scotiabank Money Market Fund, payment in full must be received within one Business Day of placing a subscription. No interest is credited or paid on subscription monies pending the issue of Shares, and no Shares of a Fund will be issued whilst the calculation of its Net Asset Value is suspended. The Manager reserves the right to cancel a subscription if payment is not received by the Settlement Date. Any expenses and losses suffered by the Fund in the event of non-payment, shall be paid by the authorized Distributor, and the Subscriber may be responsible to the authorized Distributor, depending upon arrangements with that authorized Distributor.

With the exception of the Scotiabank Money Market Fund, for which no initial sales charge is payable, an initial sales charge of up to 5% of the total amount paid by Shareholders may be deducted by the Manager and paid as a commission to the authorized Distributor. Sales charges are negotiable between the Subscriber and the authorized Distributor. The net subscription amount, after deduction of the initial sales charge, if any, will be invested in the designated Fund if, and only if, the subscription order is accepted.

The Manager reserves the right to require, at any time, satisfactory evidence that a Subscriber is legally entitled to acquire and hold Shares. The right is reserved to reject any subscription for Shares in whole or part, whenever deemed appropriate. If a subscription is rejected, the subscription monies will be returned without interest, at the risk and expense of the Subscriber, within three Business Days of rejection.

The minimum initial investment per Fund is US$1,000, or such other amount or currency as may be prescribed from time to time by the Directors. Each additional investment must be at least US$100.

REGISTRATION

Shares are issued in registered form and no certificates will be issued. Each Fund will issue a transaction confirmation which will act as confirmation of purchase. The advantage of a confirmation over a certificate is that Shares may be redeemed or transferred without the necessity of surrendering the applicable certificate.

PRE - AUTHORIZED CONTRIBUTIONS (PAC)

Following an initial investment of US$1,000 in a Fund, or US$5,000 in an AMS account, (see "Asset Management Service") account, a Shareholder may make regular Pre-Authorized Contributions for Shares of a Fund or AMS account using automatic transfers from his or her Scotiabank banking account to the Fund, or AMS account, selected. Following the initial investment, a Shareholder can invest a minimum monthly PAC amount of US$100.

Instructions may be sent to discontinue the Pre-Authorized Contributions at anytime.

REDEMPTION

Shares will be redeemed at the redemption price determined by reference to the Net Asset Value of the relevant Fund (see "Valuations") on the applicable Dealing Day. For a redemption to be accepted on a Dealing Day, the instructions to redeem must be received in good order before the Cut Off Time on such day and any later instructions shall be dealt with on the next applicable Dealing Day. No Shares may be redeemed whilst the calculation of Net Asset Value of the Fund is suspended.

With the exception of Shares of the Scotiabank Money Market Fund, Shares that are redeemed or exchanged within 90 days of purchase may be subject to a redemption fee of up to 2% of the redemption amount paid to the Fund, at the discretion of the Manager.

Payment of redemption proceeds will normally be dispatched within seven Business Days after the relevant Dealing Day at the risk and expense of the Shareholder, subject to delay where necessary to conduct an orderly liquidation of appropriate assets to satisfy the redemption requests. The details of where such monies are to be forwarded must accompany each redemption instruction. The Manager will reserve the right to insist on instructions being received in writing with regard to payment under the verified signature of the Shareholder. When there are multiple Shareholders on an account and the redemption instruction does not provide express payment instructions, proceeds will be made payable to all the Shareholders.

TRANSFER OF OWNERSHIP

For transfers of ownership, signed completed transfers must be forwarded to the Manager through an authorized Distributor of the Funds. Similarly, when changing names or Shareholder registration (for example by adding additional Shareholders or transferring the Shares), it is necessary to provide a signed completed transfer and open a new account for the transferee.

A Fund may decline to register a transfer of Shares:

- (a) unless a fully and duly completed instrument of transfer is provided to the Manager together with any other evidence necessary to show the transferor's right to transfer,
- (b) if the transferee and any person upon whose behalf the transferee would hold them are prohibited from investing in the Funds as described in "Distribution",
- (c) if following registration, the holdings of the transferee (and the transferor if such be the case) would result in their being subject to compulsory redemption (see "SUSPENSION AND COMPULSORY REDEMPTION - Compulsory Redemption").

EXCHANGES

A Shareholder holding Shares in one Fund may exchange such Shares for Shares in any of the other Funds described in this Prospectus. The exchange shall take place as a redemption of the Shares held and applying the redemption proceeds to subscribe for Shares in the other Fund. Administration charges or sales fees may be charged on such transactions.

The first time Shares are exchanged out of the Scotiabank Money Market Fund (ie. exchanging Scotiabank Money Market Shares purchased for cash), a sales charge of up to 5% of the total dollar amount of the exchange may be deducted and paid as a commission to the authorized Distributor. Sales charges are negotiable between a Shareholder and the Shareholder's authorized Distributor. The net amount, after deduction of the sales charge, if any, will be invested in the designated Fund.

Asset Management Service

The Asset Management Service (AMS) offers Shareholders 6 professionally designed AMS Model portfolios to meet specific long-term investment objectives. Each AMS Model is constructed by using a combination of Funds of any of the three main asset classes; cash and cash equivalents, fixed-income and growth. Funds within each asset class will be assigned a prescribed weighting within the AMS Model. The prescribed weightings for the Funds, for each AMS Model is determined by the Manager and may be changed from time to time without notification to Shareholders. A Shareholder electing to open an AMS account is authorizing the Manager as its attorney-in-fact to subscribe and redeem Shares of any of the Funds as, and when, the Manager deems appropriate to maintain the AMS Model selected by the Shareholder.

A Subscriber may request an account be managed by the Manager in accordance with a specific AMS Model. AMS Model names, primary objectives, risks characteristics and potential portfolio volatility are as follows:

Preservation of Capital - The primary objective is to protect principal. Holders of this AMS Model are willing to accept the lowest return in exchange for the highest security and are only willing to accept minimal risk that their investments might decline in value even in the short term.

Conservative Income - The primary objective is to earn a modest income while protecting principal. Holders of this AMS Model are willing to accept modest returns in exchange for greater security and accept that the value of their AMS account will fluctuate modestly from time to time.

Income & Conservative Growth - The primary objective is a high level of income with some growth potential. Holders of this AMS Model accept that the value of their AMS account will fluctuate modestly from time to time.

Balanced Income & Growth - The primary objective is growth with some income and exposure to the three major asset classes. Holders of this AMS Model accept that the value of their AMS account will fluctuate moderately from time to time.

Moderate Growth - The primary objective is to achieve a high level of growth with some income potential. Holders of this AMS Model accept that the total value of their AMS account may fluctuate considerably from time to time.

Aggressive Growth - The primary objective is to achieve the maximum growth potential over the long-term. Holders of this AMS Model accept that the total value of their AMS account may fluctuate extremely from time to time.

When an AMS Model is selected for an AMS account, all subsequent AMS purchases and redemptions will be allocated based on the prescribed fund weightings for the selected AMS Model.

On the 20th of March, June, September, and December (calendar quarter end month) or the next available Dealing Day if the 20th is not a Dealing Day, (each a Rebalancing Day), AMS accounts will be electronically reviewed to determine if any of the Funds that constitute the assigned AMS Model have deviated from their prescribed weighting by 3.0% or more positively or negatively. In the event that any Fund has deviated by 3.0% or more with respect of the assigned AMS Model, holdings of Shares will be rebalanced to the prescribed Fund weightings of the assigned AMS Model, resulting in an appropriate exchange of Shares. Individual holdings of Shares in Funds are exchanged to restore the account to the assigned AMS Model's specifications. Commission charges, if applicable, may be charged on these transactions.

The minimum initial investment in an AMS account is US$5,000 or such other amounts or currencies as may be prescribed from time to time by the Directors. Subscriptions for subsequent investment in an AMS account are subject to a minimum of US$100 which will be allocated to the individual Funds within the AMS Model selected by the Subscriber.

The annual fee for each AMS account is 0.1% (minimum US$25, maximum US$100) of the market value of the AMS account on the last Rebalancing Day of each calendar year. The calculated annual fee is deducted directly from each AMS account, and paid to the Manager. The Manager reserves the right to suspend or cancel this service at any time, in any jurisdiction, without notice.

Valuation

The Net Asset Value of each of the Funds, the Sub Funds, the Classes and the Shares will be determined by the Manager as at the close of business on each Dealing Day in accordance with the principles set out in the Articles of Association and in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS"). Securities for which market quotations are not readily available are valued at their fair value using methods which are in accordance with IFRS and which have been approved by the Manager. Subject to the approval of the Directors, the Manager may depart from the normal valuation principles if the Manager, in good faith, believes that the use of a different valuation principle or principles is appropriate. The Net Asset Value represents the market value of all assets less all liabilities of the relevant Fund on the Dealing Day.

The subscription and redemption price for Shares are calculated by taking the Net Asset Value of a Fund, Sub Fund or Class (as the case may be) on the relevant Dealing Day and dividing it by the number of Shares of the Fund, Sub Fund or Class (as applicable) in issue or deemed to be in issue.

Suspension & Compulsory Redemption

SUSPENSION

The determination of Net Asset Value of a Fund may be declared suspended by the Directors for the whole or part of a period during which:

- (a) by reason of the closure or suspension of trading on any capital market or exchange or over the counter market or for any other reason, the Directors consider it not reasonably practicable for the investments of the Fund to be realized or disposed of or for the Net Asset Value of all or any Class of Shares to be fairly determined;
- (b) as a result of an emergency state of affairs, the reasonable disposal or sale of securities of the Fund becomes impracticable or there exist circumstances which the Directors deem will cause material harm or serious prejudice to the Fund or the Fund's Shareholders;
- (c) there is a breakdown in the means normally employed by the Directors in ascertaining the value of assets or for any other reason the Directors consider that they cannot ascertain the value of assets of the Fund during the valuation process on the Dealing Day; or
- (d) the Directors deem it impracticable to transfer moneys of or for the Fund at applicable exchange rates at any time.

Management & Service Providers

Any such suspension shall be publicized by the Fund in such manner as the Directors may think fit, shall be communicated immediately to the Cayman Islands Stock Exchange, and shall take effect at such time as the Directors shall declare, but not later than as at the Close of Business on the Business Day next following such declaration. Thereafter there shall be no determination of the Net Asset Value of the Fund until the Directors shall declare the suspension at an end, except that the suspension shall terminate, in any event, on the first Business Day on which:

- (i) the condition giving rise to the suspension shall have ceased to exist; and
- (ii) no other condition under which suspension is authorized shall exist.

During any suspension of valuation, the subscription and redemption of Shares will also be suspended of the Fund; and any unprocessed redemption requests may be withdrawn in writing during the period of suspension.

COMPULSORY REDEMPTION

Each Fund may redeem its Shares at the current redemption price, in certain circumstances including, but not limited to, the following:

- (a) the redemption value of the Shares in a Fund held by a Shareholder is less than US$1,000 (excluding where caused by declining Net Asset Value), or such other amount or currency as the Directors may determine either generally or in any particular case; or
- (b) it comes to the notice of the Manager that Shares are owned directly or beneficially in breach of any law or requirement of any country or governmental authority or that any person is not qualified to hold such Shares directly or beneficially by virtue of such law or requirement or that the relevant Shareholder has refused or failed to provide satisfactory evidence that such Shares are not being held in breach of such law or requirement; or
- (c) it comes to the notice of the Manager that continued direct or beneficial ownership of any Shares might result in pecuniary or financial disadvantage to any Fund or any of its agents or any of its Shareholders.

It should also be recognized that the terms upon which the Manager and Scotia Asset Management L.P. were appointed have not been negotiated at arm's length.

The Articles generally do not restrict any actions taken by Scotiabank or its affiliates. Taxation and Exchange Controls

CAYMAN ISLANDS

The Cayman Islands impose no taxes on income, or capital gains, nor are Shareholders subject to any taxes in the Cayman Islands on income, capital gains, inheritance, wealth or capital transfer or other taxes, as a result of holding such Shares as at the date hereof. Each Fund has obtained a written exemption from the Government of the Cayman Islands that, for a period of twenty years from the date of the exemption, no tax hereafter introduced on profits, income, gains or appreciation, or by way of estate duty or inheritance tax would apply to such Funds or their Shares.

Scotiabank Money Market Fund and Scotiabank US Dollar Bond Fund will endeavour not to invest in any security, which may give rise to withholding or other tax in the United States of America or Canada, or any other jurisdiction.

No stamp duty is levied by the Government of the Cayman Islands on the issue, transfer or redemption of Shares. No withholding taxes are payable in the Cayman Islands on dividends or other distributions or on redemptions of Shares.

There are no exchange controls and no other restrictions on the transfer of funds to and from the Cayman Islands as at the date hereof.

GENERAL

The above information is general information only given at the date hereof and does not constitute any form of tax advice or directions to any Shareholder of the Funds. Subscribers not resident in the Cayman Islands should consult their own professional advisors on the possible tax, regulatory or exchange control consequences in all relevant jurisdictions of acquiring, holding, redeeming or selling Shares.

Regulation of the Funds in the Cayman Islands

The Funds are regulated under the Mutual Funds Law (2009 Revision) of the Cayman Islands and qualify as regulated mutual funds by virtue of having a licensed mutual fund administrator (Scotiabank & Trust (Cayman) Ltd.) to provide the Funds' principal office in the Cayman Islands. Among other requirements, every regulated mutual fund must have an annual audit of its financial statements by an auditor approved by the Cayman Islands government; and a copy of the audited financial statements must be filed with the Cayman Islands Monetary Authority ("CIMA") within six months of the financial year-end. The Mutual Funds Law also gives CIMA various regulatory and remedial powers. There is no compensation scheme in the Cayman Islands for investors in mutual funds.

CIMA may at any time instruct a Fund to have its accounts audited and to submit them to CIMA within such time as CIMA specifies. In addition CIMA may ask the Directors to give CIMA such information or such explanation in respect of a Fund as CIMA may reasonably require to enable it to carry out its duty under the Mutual Funds Law. The Directors must give CIMA access to or provide at any reasonable time all records relating to the Funds and CIMA may copy or take an extract of a record to which it is given access. Failure to comply with these requests by CIMA may result in substantial fines being imposed on the Directors and may result in CIMA applying to the court to have the Funds wound up.

CIMA may take certain actions if it is satisfied that a regulated mutual fund is likely to become unable to meet its obligations as they fall due or is carrying on or is attempting to carry on business or is winding up its business voluntarily in a manner that is prejudicial to its investors or creditors. The powers of CIMA include, inter alia, the power to require the substitution of the Directors, to appoint a person to advise the Funds on the proper conduct of its affairs or to appoint a person to assume control of the affairs of the Funds. There are other remedies available to CIMA, including the ability to apply to the court for approval of other actions.

Cayman Islands Anti-Money Laundering Regulations

In order to comply with regulations aimed at the prevention of money laundering, the Funds will require verification of identity from all Subscribers. The Funds reserve the right to request such information as is necessary to verify the identity of a Subscriber. In the event of delay or failure by the Subscriber to produce any information required for verification purposes, the Fund may refuse to accept the subscription for Shares and, if so, any funds received will be returned without interest to the account from which the monies were originally debited.

If any person who is resident in the Cayman Islands has a knowledge or suspicion or reasonable grounds for knowledge or suspicion obtained in the course of business that any other person is engaged in money laundering, that person is required to report such knowledge or suspicion pursuant to the Proceeds of Crime Law (as amended) of the Cayman Islands and such reports shall not be treated as a breach of any restriction upon the disclosure of information imposed by any enactment or otherwise.
