

Scotia Vision Aggressive 2020 Portfolio

2020 Target Date Portfolio

Investment Objective

The fund's objective is to follow an asset allocation strategy that emphasizes a balanced total return. The fund will gradually shift its asset mix from an emphasis on equity funds to an emphasis on income and cash equivalent funds as its target date (2020) approaches. The fund invests primarily in a diversified mix of mutual funds managed by the fund's manager and other mutual fund managers.

Reasons for Investing

- A managed solution based on innovative asset allocation strategies that automatically become more conservative over the life of the investment.
- A single investment that offers the convenience of one fund, one price and one performance record to follow.
- Includes leading ScotiaFunds managed by an experienced team of investment professionals.

QUARTERLY COMMENTARY

As of June 30, 2013

Scotia Vision Aggressive 2020 Portfolio returned -1.19% for the quarter, versus the blended benchmark, of 37% DEX Universe Bond, 33% S&P/TSX Composite, 29% MSCI World and 1% DEX 91 Day T-Bill indices, which returned -0.93%.

After a strong start, the rally in global equities came under pressure by the end of the second quarter. Despite promising employment, housing and manufacturing data in the U.S., investors were once again preoccupied by the direction of the U.S. Federal Reserve's (Fed's) latest round of quantitative easing (QE). The European Commission extended the deadline on austerity measures for France, Spain and other growth-plagued nations, as manufacturing and service sector output remained in a period of contraction during the period. In Japan, stocks began to descend from a mid-May peak, as investors questioned the effectiveness of Prime Minister Shinzo Abe's aggressive easing program. Meanwhile, China's central bank governor pledged to adjust the money supply appropriately and maintain overall stability in the world's second-largest economy after the lack of liquidity in the market became a national concern.

The divergence between major equity markets results was highlighted in the second quarter, as a slowdown in demand for commodities continued to negatively impact resource-rich economies and markets. The S&P 500 Index maintained its relative strength, returning 6.86% last quarter in Canadian dollar terms. The significant allocation to the materials sector dragged on the S&P/TSX Composite Index's performance, which fell 4.08%. The DEX Universe Bond Index also turned in a loss over the period, returning -2.36%, as an unexpected sell-off in June caused Canadian bond prices to fall sharply. Global equities' dependence on monetary stimulus was evidenced by the MSCI World Index, which had a total return of 5.93% by mid-May, but then began to lose steam following the Fed's QE statement, resulting in a relatively weaker return of 4.51% by quarter end.

The near maximum allocation to U.S. equities proved beneficial for Scotia Canadian Dividend Fund, which contributed to the Portfolio's relative performance, while Scotia Canadian Income Fund's emphasis on 10-year bonds and defensive positioning in corporate issues detracted from relative performance.
